PRICE THREE CENTS

TWENTY-TWO PEOPLE KILLED

IN WRECK NEAR DURAND,
MINNESOTA

Two Sections of Wallace Bros.
Circus Train Come Together
Frightful Results—Springfield
Man Among the Dead.

Durand, Mich., Aug. 7.—Wallace Brothers' circus was wrecked in the Grand Trunk yards early to day. Twenty-two men, mostly employees of the circus, were killed and about a dozen more injured, seven fatally. The show was traveling in two sections over the Grand Trunk from Lansing to Lapere and the accident, it is said, was caused by failure of the second section train to stop on time and which ran into the first at full speed. The engine of the second section and four cars of the first section were completely demolished. Much valuable property was destroyed. The dead:

JAMES McCARTHY, trainmaster Grand Trunk road.

A. W. LARGE, special officer Grand Trunk, Battle Creek.

JOHN PURCELL, Peru, Ind.

LAFEE LARSON, Cambridge, Ohio.

G. THOMAS, home unknown.

HARRY ST. CLAIR, home unknown.

JOHN LEARY, Springfield, Ill.

ANDREW HOWLAND, New York.

FRANK THORPE, Dundee, Mich.

ROBERT RICE, home unknown.

GEORGE SMITH, home unknown.

CHARLES SANDS, Peru, Ind.

JOE WILSON, Pithole, Pa.

W. J. MCCOY, Columbus, Ohio.

EDWARD YORK, Terre Haute, Ind.

SEVEN UNIDENTIFIED.

Among the injured are W. Cone, Du-pune, Iowa; Joseph Patterson, Grand

Prairie, Ill.; James Coyle, Erie, Ohio;

John Collins, Des Moines; Joseph Monks,

Vasari, Mich.

Fifteen injured were taken to Detroit on a special train for treatment. Scores of volunteers with stretchers were in readiness to carry the injured there as fast as resources could extricate them. Many of them were dead and many so terribly mangled identification seemed well-nigh impossible. They were carefully laid on the greenward a short distance from the scene. By 6 o'clock a corps of twelve physicians were operating on the injured and dressing wounds in a temporary hospital.

ENGINEER'S STORY.

It was 3:45 when the first section pulled into the west end of the Grand Trunk yards here. Engineer Probst, of Battle Creek, who was running the engine of the rear train, says he saw a light and applied the air brakes. To his horror the air refused to work. He reversed his engine, but the momentum of the train behind was too great and with a crash that aroused all of the town near the yards the two trains met. Three cars of the first section were telescoped and the engine and five cars of the moving train demolished. The rear car of the first section was a caboose, in which trainmen were sleeping, and the next two were filled with sleeping circus employees. The greatest loss of life was in the caboose. One of the wrecked cars of the second section was occupied by five elephants and several camels. One elephant and two camels were killed outright, while the other animals and trainmen escaped. With exception to this car of the menagerie wrecked the other demolished cars contained canvas or wagons and there was comparatively little excitement among the wild animals.

Escaping steam and screams and cries of those pinned in the wreck made a horrifying spectacle to trainmen in the yards and aroused the townspeople who first reached the scene. A wrecking crew was on the scene in a very few minutes. The Hotel Richelieu was converted into a temporary hospital.

BLAME ENGINEER.

Discussing the question of responsibility of the horror railroad officials unhesitatingly lay the blame on Engineer Probst, of the second section, whose home is in Battle Creek. Probst says the air brakes refused to work, but officials declare he could have stopped the train in time to have avoided serious consequences. The official report on the accident issued by Superintendent Brownlee declares positively the air brakes have been tested since the accident and found to be in perfect condition and there is evidence that they were not applied.

One of the officials discussing the accident and its cause said he believed Engineer Probst had exhausted his air in checking his train several times between Lansing and Durand and failed to again charge his tank. The head brakeman and fireman, who were on the engine, bear out Probst's statement that the brakes refused to work.

DEAD SENT HOME.

Bodies of the dead have been placed in caskets and are being shipped to their homes.

INJURED REMOVED.

Detroit, Aug. 7.—Twenty-two injured circus men were brought to Detroit this afternoon and taken to a hospital. It was stated that none of them were likely to die to night, although John Thompson of Peru, Ind., George Clough of Geneva, Ohio, and James Stewart of Denver are in a serious condition and may not recover.

BARON VON STERNBERG

Presents His Credentials as German Ambassador to the United States.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 7.—Sagamore Hill, President Roosevelt's country home, was the scene to day of an interesting ceremony, when Baron Speck von Sternberg, who on retirement of German Ambassador von Holleben was elevated to that rank, laid before the president a letter announcing the recall of Ambassador von Holleben and his own credentials as successor.

President Roosevelt, in replying to the speech of Ambassador Sternberg expressed much pleasure in receiving his credential letter and said:

"Your knowledge of the American government and people gained during your several periods of residence here as a diplomatic agent of Germany and the pleasant relations which have existed between the president and the executive officers of this country lend added weight to assurance of your desire and endeavor to advance and strengthen relations of amity which have been maintained so long and unbrokenly between the United States and Germany and will enable you moreover to appreciate at its full weight reciprocal assurance which I gladly offer of equal wish and purpose of this government to promote in all practicable ways fulfillment of your mission."

At the conclusion of the ceremony the president and Ambassador von Sternberg as old friends chatted animatedly. The ambassador will be an unofficial guest of the president until to morrow.

DISCUSSION FINANCE.

Senators Millard of Nebraska and Heburn of Idaho were guests of the president to day. To them the president stated his desire respecting financial legislation at the approaching session of congress. Millard agreed with the president as to desirability of a more elastic system of currency, but was quite positive the government itself ought to be behind every dollar of currency issued, so that no question of its value ever would be raised. He expressed belief government bonds in sufficient quantity now were outstanding to afford basis for currency issues. He said he would favor the "right kind of a measure" looking to greater elasticity of currency, but was sure some of the measures recently proposed would not be acceptable to the country.

During part of the afternoon the president and Ambassador Sternberg practiced rifle shooting. Both are experts, the ambassador, when in practice, having been regarded as one of the finest shots in the German army.

Schultz has been under bonds awaiting trial for attempting to murder his wife some time ago. The theory is advanced he was of unsound mind.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF TRADE

BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD GENERALLY

Reports of Bradstreet and R. G. Dun & Co. Show Brilliant Outlook for Future—Good Feeling in the West.

New York, Aug. 7.—Bradstreet's report says: The future in trade and industry despite some mainly sentimental drawbacks is highly promising. Divided geographically it is to be noticed the east feels effect of speculative liquidation and dulling effects on manufacturing of high prices of raw material or of strikes, while the west and south contemplate prospects of good yields of staple crops and remunerative prices for the same with confidence and even optimism. Staple prices are drifting lower. Other developments in actual trade and manufacture are favorable. There are more buyers of dry goods, clothing, hats, shoes and hardware in western markets and in nearly all lines of business it is claimed to be equal to or in excess of last year so far.

Railway earnings thus far reported for July indicate a gain of 14 per cent over the same month a year ago and therefore to this extent are best ever reported for that month.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week were 3,040,629 bushels, against 4,244,363 this week last year; for five weeks of the cereal year 15,017,253 bushels, against 25,731,250.

Corn exports for the week 884,428 bushels, against 70,611 a year ago; for five weeks of the present cereal year 6,242,023 bushels, against 49,437 in 1902.

R. G. DUN & CO.

Trade advices from nearly every section continue to show as favorable conditions as a year ago and in many lines the volume of transactions has been increased.

Jobbers report fall business opening with excellent prospects and manufacturing plants are well occupied, with exception of cotton mills. Distribution of merchandise is so heavy that railway equipment already proven inadequate, although crops are not the factor that they will be in a few weeks. Earnings in July exceeded last year's by 12.7 per cent and those of 1902 by 22.2 per cent.

On the whole, news from farms is less favorable, but no serious curtailment is assured and many sections make very bright reports. A decline of 1.5 per cent in cost of commodities during July is evidence that prices are less inflated since the change was mainly in meat and other food, which have been ruling at an abnormal position.

The consumption of iron and steel is on a large scale and in many departments the past week has witnessed the signing of numerous contracts, but there is a tendency to delay purchases beyond early needs. More pig iron was imported during July than anticipated and German billets are still offered at Pittsburgh, but domestic makers announce their intention of meeting foreign competition.

No change is noticed in the attitude of cotton goods, buyers appearing determined to postpone business until readjustment of prices for raw materials.

Failures were 137 this week in the United States, against 150 last week and 156 for the corresponding week of last year. Canada 19, against 19 last week and 41 last year.

MACEDONIAN INSURRECTION.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 7.—The insurrectionary outbreak in Macedonia, which was believed to be impossible, has produced a sensation everywhere. It is believed the latest provocations by Turkish troops drove the insurrectionists to despair. The Bulgarian government is resolved to maintain friendly relations with the port and prevent bands from crossing the frontier, but popular movement is feared in event of massacres of peaceful Macedonians by Turkish soldiery.

MISS KATE BLACKBURN, Researcher of Bulgarian Social Conditions
Abroad. Their Life and Customs.

Miss Kate Blackburn, who is here for an extended visit at the home of her father, Edmund Blackburn, northwestern part of the city, has spent several days in the village of Varna, overlooking the sea, the Methodist church. Miss Blackburn has been so long in Bulgaria that she has a great interest in the country and her work. In conversation recently she gave some facts about her field of missionary endeavor. "Bulgaria is about half as large as Illinois in extent and is divided into provinces. For 500 years the country was a subject to Turkey but a few years ago the yoke was thrown off though it is supposed still that tribute is paid to Turkey. The prince is at the head of the present form of government and representatives to a general assembly are elected from each province. However, there are many political parties in Bulgaria and the term of office of any one elected is very uncertain. Changes in government are apt to occur at almost any time and with out much warning. The language of the court is French, but the people speak in the Bulgarian language. It is a very difficult matter for a foreigner to learn or acquire this language, as there is no Bulgarian dictionary.

"However, the people take great pride in their public schools and the course offered corresponds to a course one year in advance of our grammar schools. There is no co-education after the fourth year, boys and girls having separate schools from that time forth."

Miss Blackburn has been the principal of the Boarding and Day school for girls situated at Loftcha. The school is conducted by the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church and sixty young women attend it. There are two English and five native teachers and the courses offered are exceptionally good. English and French are taught as foreign languages and the girls receive thorough training in domestic science.

Loftcha is a city of 10,000 people located about twenty-five miles from a railroad near the Balka mountains. It is a farming and grazing community and in passing through the country one is struck with the fact that there are six women to one man at work in the fields. Oxen and buffaloes are used for plowing and other agricultural work.

There are some horses, but they are reserved for driving and riding. All the domestic animals are rather stunted and it is unusual to see a good horse or cow. The milk of the buffalo is used almost exclusively for domestic purposes. The methods of farming are still primitive, grain being gathered from the fields with scythes and cradles. The people in the cities of Bulgaria look and dress like Europeans, but each village has some distinctive feature of costume.

The women dress in light colored wool or silk materials, which they weave with their own hands. They are experts at spinning, though they have only the rudest machinery for the work. The women are fond of finery and nearly all of them continually wear bright flowers in their hair and jewelry is used freely for personal adornment. The men do not care so much for appearance, one might say, comfort either, for both summer and winter they go about wearing heavy sheepskin capes. Altogether Bulgaria is a very interesting country and it is gratifying to know that the work of missionaries there is flourishing and prosperous. Many of the natives are Greek Catholics.

EITHER WAY.

There is a famous restaurant on Broad St.—an epicure's paradise where stock gamblers go to discuss big deals over little dishes. A weary looking Yale professor was taken there once by a slim broker friend. At the cigars the college man stirred his coffee thoughtfully. "Poor sort of world this would be without coffee," he said. But the ticked in the corner stopped just then and the thin, broken friend suddenly remembered his woes in September when "mighty poor sort with coffee," he answered emphatically. Coffee, even good coffee, is a bad thing to build your philosophy on. Men who need unfogged brains and steady nerve in their business require Mocca Cereal Coffee—The Food Drink. As delicious in flavor as the best cup of coffee you ever tasted. You like it without trying. It feeds the nerves, puts color into the blood, makes good spirits and good health. Mocca Tea Drink.

STOP MOB RULE

YANKEE FRIENDS INTELLIGENCE TO THE STATES

Ask for specific statements of facts about recent lynchings—Means to leave Texas—Texas to Lynch City—Answers.

Twice Governor Yates has sent my friends and I a circular letter on mob rule in the state of Illinois. Every statement we are given is that when he received that I intended to speak and act for him. We went to the governor and told him what we had done. He said, "I have a few, and you are right." I began to say, while my friends were on the bus, "We are here to stop mob rule in the mountains, which was started by the mobocrats that came through the southern states, which was a few months ago." We were asked to leave Texas when my friends and myself.

"I was about moving about in one pew and out of another and then disappeared in darkened corners. I wonder if they can be the shades of past participants in the mob rule that used to visit the place where they have so often hoped and prayed?"

I smiled at his conceit and went on playing, when suddenly placing his hand on my shoulder he said tightly:

"Look! Is that a man?" I turned and looked where he was pointing and saw, or thought I saw, what seemed to be a man dressed in an old blouse and trousers of some light colored material half standing and half kneeling in the center of the church. There was a nimbus of light above his head, and he was looking straight at me with eyes protruding from their sockets.

"Great heavens!" I exclaimed. "What can it be?"

Not taking my eyes from the apparition I reached to the side of the organ and pressed the button that turned on all the lights in the church. As I did so the figure disappeared. We then decided to search the church. So my friend went down one aisle while I went down the other, looking in all the pews, but there was no one in the church but our two selves.

Feeling rather strange, we left the church and walked out into the country. Coming back, we passed by the walls of Woodland cemetery. We had passed by the main entrance, which was closed for the night, when my friend, looking through the bars, said:

"There is something I have often heard of and always been anxious to see. Look! The ignis fatuus."

I followed his gaze and saw what appeared to be a pale, yellowish ball of fire suspended directly over a large granite tomb that had for its vista a small clump of trees.

"Let us go in," he said. "I would like to see it closer."

So, going on to a little gate that was fastened by a chain and hook, we unfastened the grating and entered.

We walked up the path until we came to a side path that led us back to where we had seen the light. As we turned into the side path a large white dog came toward us, making no sound on the loose gravel of the path. He came toward us wagging his tail and stopped within a few feet and looked up into our faces. I called:

"Here, doggie, here, old fellow."

When he turned and vanished—we both paused and looked at each other, and I need not own cowardice when I say that I began to feel cold and creepy. Finally I said, "Do you still want to see the light?"

"Yes," answered my friend. "Let's go on." So we went on toward where we had seen the light, and suddenly I said, "There it is." And there it was, twenty feet away, shining with a dull, unearthly glow.

"I must go nearer," said my friend, and he started toward the light. As he got to it it went out.

"Do you see it now?" he called.

"No," I answered. "Come, let's get out of this." And we hastened from the spot, nor did we stop until we had chained and hooked the grating on the outside.

"What do you suppose it was?" I asked.

"It would be poetic to say that it was the flight of some tired soul gone out to the vast unknown," he answered, "but whatever it was, let's get home."

The next day I had a strange feeling that something I knew not what was going to happen, but I accounted for it by the events of the night before and told my story to no one. As I was coming out of town in the afternoon I bought an evening paper, and the first thing that met my eye was the headline:

"Suicide in Woodland Cemetery."

Eagerly I scanned the column, and even now I recall the exact wording:

"At an early hour this morning as two men were going through Woodland cemetery to work at Gray's Ferry they came across the body of a man suspended from a tree which is one of a group of trees situated between the two groups of trees in this part of the cemetery. The body was cut down and taken to the morgue. The coroner's physician is of the opinion that the man died between 11 and 12 o'clock last night."

"I immediately left the car, took a street car and went up to the morgue.

"On I see the man who handled him in Woodland cemetery laid slightly across the table."

"The man was dead and had the way to the cover of a moon and going to a path on which had a worn covered by a mat, three down the covering and back to the morgue."

"I then went with them to the morgue and found the man had been dead for some time and the body was decomposed and could not be identified."

STOP MOB RULE

YANKEE FRIENDS INTELLIGENCE TO THE STATES

Ask for specific statements of facts about recent lynchings—Means to leave Texas—Texas to Lynch City—Answers.

Twice Governor Yates has addressed letters to friends here, of Alexander county, Thompson of St. Clair and Whitefoot of Vermillion, calling their attention to the lynchings which have occurred in their respective counties in the last six months.

In the letters Governor Yates says "mob rule is anarchy" and following this statement he declares that if mob rule is to prevail all the efforts of all the men of the past who have struggled, fought and died for liberty have been in vain.

The full text of the communications are as follows:

The prevalence of lynch law and mob rule in various parts of the United States has for some time been alarming, but not until recently has it made its appearance in the state of Illinois. Within the past six months in the counties of Alexander, St. Clair and Vermillion there has been an outbreak of lawlessness of this character in its worst form. This lawlessness has earned and evoked the righteous indignation and vigorous condemnation of every citizen possessed of the least sense of decency.

MOB LAW IS ANARCHY.

There is only one thing to be done in this connection by officers of the law. Such officers have been entrusted with the confidence, safety, property and lives of their fellow citizens, and they have taken a solemn oath to enforce and sustain the constitution and laws of their country and state. The obligation resting upon them is obligatory and imperative. Mob rule is anarchy.

The prevalence of lynch law will result in no peace, no safety, no liberty. If a hundred or thousand men infuriated and inflamed by passion or prejudice or intoxication or any other cause shall be allowed to use the power to say whether you or I or any other citizen shall live or die, then there is no can be no safety, no peace, and no liberty; and in that case all the efforts of all the men of the past who have struggled and fought and died for liberty have been in vain.

Under all these circumstances it becomes my duty under section six of article five of the constitution of 1870 which specifically states that it shall be the duty of the governor to take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and to do all within my power to prevent a repetition of the lynchings which have occurred in this state and to punish relentlessly those which have occurred.

To this end I now write you in my capacity as chief executive of the state, bound by my oath and required by the constitution to enforce the law, to request that you forward at once in writing a brief statement of all the facts within your knowledge in regard to the recent lynchings in your county together with any recommendations you may have to make which will prevent such occurrences again in your county, or any other county in this state.

INJURED HIS FOOT.

Perry White, an employee of the Illinois Bridge and Machine company, met with a painful accident
Friday morning while unloading a car load of steel at the Junction. In company with Harry Taylor White was engaged in carrying out a heavy piece of steel from the car and had it out on the platform when Taylor let his end drop before White knew of it and the jar threw the end.
White was holding out of his hand and it struck on the instep of his right foot, cutting a gash in his foot three inches deep. White was taken on a street car to the office of Dr.
Carl E. Black, where the wound was dressed and later he was removed to his home on South Church street.

The wound is a painful one and will keep White from his work for a number of weeks.

It's on the 4th page—Frank's dry goods store advertisement.

CLAYS EAST OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

The United States Geological Survey is about to publish, as Professional Paper No. 11, "The Clays of the United States East of the Mississippi River," by Dr. Heinrich Kies, a paper that has been looked for with interest by a large number of persons, particularly by those engaged in some form of the clay industry.

Dr. Kies discusses briefly the origin, physical and chemical properties, methods of mining, purification and the geological distribution of clays east of the Mississippi according to their rock derivation; and then he takes up the distribution of clays by kinds, and the description of clay deposits by states. He concludes with a summary of the clay-working industry east of the Mississippi, touching in turn and by states on the manufacture of common brick, pressed brick, fireproofing, roofing tiles, terra cotta, enameled brick, floor tiles, sewer pipe, fire brick and pottery.

The largest brick-making region in the country is in the Hudson river valley, in New York state, where nearly all brick are made annually. Pennsylvania leads in the production of pressed brick. Most of the terra cotta comes from New York, New Jersey and Illinois. Although West Virginia was the cradle of the paving brick industry, Ohio now leads in the production of vitrified brick. Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan are the most important producers of drain tile, and Ohio is the main producer also of sewer pipe. Pennsylvania produced over four and a half million dollars worth of firebrick, about one-half the total production, in both 1900 and 1901. Ohio, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, in the order named, are the greatest producers of pottery. East Liverpool, Ohio and Trenton, N. J., being the chief centers of production.

CHARGES CRUELTY.

Mrs. Emily Wilson has commenced in the circuit court a suit for divorce from her husband, Joseph Wilson, to whom she was married Feb. 22, 1902. Mrs. Wilson charge her husband with respected acts of cruelty. She says that when she married him she owned the property at 472 South Main street and that he brought nothing there but his clothes. Later she says he established a small store near the corner of West and Anna streets, but continued to go to her table for his meals. The complainant says that Wilson threatened to do her injury if she sued for divorce and accordingly she asked the court for an injunction to prevent him from coming on the premises, where she now resides and has a store. The injunction was granted by Judge Thompson.

ON HIS WAY WEST.

Dr. J. H. Hart, of Philadelphia, formerly an instructor in physics at Illinois college, spent Friday in the city on his way to California. Since leaving Jacksonville Dr. Hart has spent several months in Europe and last year was connected with the University of Pennsylvania. After a few weeks spent on the Pacific coast he will return to Philadelphia and resume his duties at the university.

HOME FROM EUROPE.

Dr. Byron S. Gail and wife returned Thursday from a two months visit in Europe. They left here June 1 and sailed from New York June 3, landing at Hamburg. From there they went to Dresden, Berlin and Vienna, spending a month at the latter place, where Dr. Gail took a month's course in the celebrated Vienna hospital, the most noted institution in the world for the treatment of eye, ear nose and throat diseases. After leaving Vienna Mr. and Mrs. Gail visited Venice, Rome and Naples, sailing from the latter port for this country.

HIGH-PRICED HOGS.

A. Loveloy & Son's sale of pure bred Berkshire hogs at Riverside farm near Rockford resulted in forty-four animals being bought at an average price of $1. Last year forty-seven were sold at an average of $1.07. The highest price was paid by George Council, of Williamsonville, Ill., for a sow. He also bought three other sows for $1.05. They were all show animals.

Col. C. F. Mills, Springfield, secretary of the Berkshire Breeders' Association, was clerk of the sale and R. B. Baile, of Gibson City, was auctioneer. Buyers were present from nearly every state in the Union, as well as representatives of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Indiana and South Carolina agricultural colleges.

BOY SHOOTS GIRL FRIEND IN PLAY

Emil Nordine, 7 Years Old, Accidentally Kills Esther Larson, Aged 5, at Stevensville.

Bloomington, Aug. 7.—Little Esther Larson, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Larson, was accidentally killed to day in the yard of her home in Stevensville, a suburb of this city, by seven year-old Emil Nordine, with whom she was playing. The two children in some manner procured a revolver and were examining the weapon when it went off. The bullet entered the forehead of the girl making a horrible wound.

The two children were next door neighbors and were playing in the Larson yard when the tragedy occurred. Both the mother of the dead child and the parents of the little boy are almost crazed with grief.

The revolver with which the deed was done belonged to John Nordine, who deemed the weapon worthless and had thrown it into a coal house in the rear of the premises. He did not know that he had left a charge in it.

Shamrock III's New Rig.

Shamrock III has sacrificed a large portion of her handicap in the American cup races. By a change of rig which was recently completed the challenger has doubtless reduced by from two-thirds to three-quarters the time allowance to be granted to her by the Reliance. She has a new mast that is fifteen feet higher than that she formerly carried, and her sails are larger in proportion. This is significant in view of Sir Thomas Lipton's expressed confidence in his new filer's ability to lift the America's cup.

Lipton and Designer Fife have seen the weakest point of Shamrock III and are making a desperate effort to overcome it even at the loss of valuable time allowance.

Running to leeward or before the wind, the challenger could scarcely beat her back number mate. This has been her most serious defect. At the risk even of weakening the vessel's rig aloft by adding tons of dead weight and other tons of wind pressure more driving power has been given to the yacht.

It is probably a long chance Sir Thomas Lipton is taking, considering the added danger of accident, but he wants that cup, as everybody knows by this time, and is staking his last strand of rope yarn on his chances.

Champion Girl Jumper.
Miss Lydia Carpenter has broken another record. This time it is unofficial, in her high jump she cleared the bar at 4 feet 4 inches.

Miss Carpenter, who lives at Plattsburgh, N. Y., is a remarkable and natural born athlete. She has taken the record of the girls' running high jump away from Vassar college, surpassing the jump of Miss Helen C. Wood of that college by a fraction or more in height as she went over the bar. Miss Wood carried the record with 4 feet 2 1/2 inches, but Miss Carpenter had defeated her by a bound of 4 feet 3 1/2 inches and now has bettered that record.

Accordingly the State Normal school of Plattsburgh, of which Miss Carpenter is a fair member, now holds the championship.

Concerning Bell Salaries.

In Pittsburgh has originated a story to the effect that the two major leagues will get together at the end of the season and fix the salary limit at $2,400 a year. The magnates deny that such a step has been taken, but other officials admit that a reduction is sure to come. Denial is as unconvincing as any conceivable excuse of course of course, and the salaries will be increased to a lower figure eventually fall to a lower level, especially when down hill.

Charles Morris is certainly playing a dangerous game for the Western Union. He has been a member of the

WASHINGTON LETTER

(Special Correspondence)

Robert Shaw Oliver, recently appointed assistant secretary of war, is considered a promising candidate to succeed Secretary Root when the latter retires from the cabinet. There seems to be an understanding that Mr. Oliver meets the requirements, and his appointment will be favorably considered.

There is no secret in the fact that Secretary Root intends to surrender his official position as soon as he can complete certain important matters now in hand and return to New York and the practice of law. The date of his retirement, however, is very indefinite. He will sail for England the last of August to take his place as chairman of the American commission in the Alaskan boundary case. It is understood that he will continue as secretary of war during the time he is abroad. In case the affairs which have been under his especial charge in which he was very much interested are still unsettled when he shall return to this country it is expected that he will continue as secretary of war.

There are other considerations which may prolong his stay as a member of the cabinet until after the next session of congress shall adjourn. The fact that he is familiar with everything pertaining to Philippine affairs, with the administration in Cuba and with the management of all military matters since the Spanish war, all of which subjects may be considered by the next congress, may cause him to continue until then in his present position.

The Marine Band.

The members of the United States Marine band held an informal celebration at the barracks the other day in honor of the one hundred and fifth anniversary of the organization of the band. Lieutenant Santelman opened the programme with a toast to the memory of President John Adams, who on July 11, 1798, approved the act "providing for a drum corps for the marines," which had been passed by congress the day before. He then gave an outline of the history of the band, and afterward the musicians played a number of well known productions, beginning with "Hail Columbia" which was composed for and played by the band in 1803.

The Marine band is the oldest in the country and has always been attached to the headquarters of the marine corps in Washington. It has taken no part in the wars of this country and indeed has never left the capital except by official permission, its mission being to furnish music at all White House entertainments of importance and at like affairs of state.

To Reorganize Consulate Service.

Assistant Secretary of State Herbert H. D. Peirce has gone to Europe for the ostensible purpose of inspecting the United States consulates. The work he will perform is of more than ordinary importance, as the result of his investigations will probably have considerable weight upon legislation that will come before the next congress. There is a quiet determination to effect a reform in the consular service, and congress will be urged to assist with the necessary legislation.

There is a good deal of dead timber in the consular service which it is proposed to weed out, and if congress will pass the necessary laws the service will be placed upon a merit basis, and a system of advancement and promotion will be arranged that will offer inducements for capable men to represent the government abroad as consul.

Fan in the Pension Office.

Pension Commissioner Ware, whose sense of humor is as acute as it is broad and deep, fairly revels in the highly original letters that come to his desk in abundance beyond that of the correspondence of any other government department. But among all those of recent date the following, with its delicate tribute to his predecessor, who had "turned down" the applicant a couple of years ago, in his opinion is entitled to the "dun."

"Sur—Sum 2 years ago I sent a peal to youre offis and rite now to let you no i am alife and to incure if you are the salin or if you ha cuut the ole stan and lettin his royn magist Hott Cakes Evans tend the skillett. If Evans has chaist yu up a tre or put yu under a bari yu sholy en holier down or torck thru the bung hoal and let me no how i stan lessin yure scaitl outen yn close."

Revenue Cutters on the Lakes.

The Tuscarora and the Morrill, two of the finest boats in the revenue service, will shortly begin their work on the great lakes. The Tuscarora will be detailed to the Chicago-Milwaukee station, while the Morrill will be sent to Detroit to take the place of the Fessenden, the old side wheeler, which will probably be sent to Key West. The new boats will be started west via the Canadian canals immediately after the international yacht race, during which they will be employed in policing the course.

No More Age Limit on Veterans.

An important order has been issued at the direction of the president amending the civil service rules removing the age limit that has for some time operated to exclude veterans of the civil war from appointment on the roll of latents in the federal service. Under the order veterans who meet other requirements will no longer be debarred by age.

Men in Federal Armories.

Secretary of War Taft has directed the armories to make arrangements to confine the trial which is to determine the merits of the question submitted to it relative to the compensation of

CONDENSED STORIES

(Special Correspondence)

Was Afraid of Demurrers Because One Threw Him Out of Court.

After having been solicitor general Captain Evan P. Howell, our present distinguished major, retained a considerable amount of private practice in Clayton superior court. At one term of the court he had a weak case for a very dull witted but persistent client. When it was sounded on the docket for trial the lawyer for the defense had filed a demurrer that was discussed and sustained, thereby throwing the plaintiff's case overboard.

The plaintiff had listened intently to a legal duel, the purport of which was to him, as a display of eulogistic inscriptions, but had a consciousness that something awful had happened when the fracas between the lawyers came to an abrupt end.

He went out like Mary's little lamb and lingered around until Captain Howell emerged from the courthouse door. His client seized him by the arm and dragged him off to a quiet spot in the shadow of John L. Doyal's law office.

"Evan, what's happened?" he tremulously questioned.

"Why, John, that unfeeling judge in there let the case go off on a demur-"

"Well, Evan, I know that, and we're flung out all right, but what's that thunder is a demurrer? Tell me that now!"

"Oh, John, you go home to your plowing and don't worry. The good Lord never intended a fellow like you to understand the lengths and breadths, the heights and depths, of a demurrer! Why, a demurrer is one of the most dangerous things that the law of a thousand years has brought down to us for our affliction! Go home and try to forget it!"

And John went—went in a hurry, so as to get space between him and the demurrers as quickly as possible.—Atlanta Constitution.

tales. Just before he sailed for Venezuela a well dressed fellow approached him as he was leaving the Fifth Avenue hotel.

"Beg your pardon," said the man.

"It's really too ridiculous, but—"

"Hold on," interrupted Mr. Morris. "You told me that story last week. Now I am going to turn you over to the police."

"My dear sir," exclaimed the beggar, bristling up, "I want you to understand that I have as good a right to make a living as you have."

An Expensive Illness.

J. Arthur Joseph, who conducts a news bureau in Wall street, has had to stand much chaffing from his acquaintances because during the recent weeks of a declining stock market he has been an insistent and persistent bull.

A friend of his met him on the street the other day and asked him how the market was. Joseph looked very tired and simply coughed in reply.

"What's the matter?" asked his friend. "Have you caught cold?"

"No," replied Joseph. "That's a habit. I've acquired it by coughing up margins for two months."—New York Press.

Strange Atmospheric Conditions in South Dakota Following Period of Heat.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 1.—One of the most remarkable atmospheric depressions is reported from Oacoma, S. D. Following the hottest day ever experienced in the South Dakota town occurred an atmospheric condition, lasting only a few minutes, but fatal to livestock and greatly distressing to human beings.

During the day nearly every kitten less than six months old in the vicinity of Oacoma died, apparently from the effects of some gaseous matter in the air.

A bunch of eighteen cattle in one drove were seen coming down from the hills and eight of them ran to the ground. A farmer living near ran to them and found six of the eight already dead, while the other two jumped up and ran frantically away.

John Marrian, a stock man living on White river reports the loss of six head the same day. No losses have occurred since and none prior to that time, and it is generally believed that the copious rains which have fallen since have neutralized whatever poison to animal life may have been in the air. It was a phenomenon heretofore unknown here.

So rank is the growth of all kinds of vegetation throughout South Dakota this season that disastrous prairie fires will result this fall unless extraordinary precautions are taken. The first fire of this character this season occurred near Blunt, and was caused by the apparently trivial act of a farmer while engaged in haying lighting his pipe and throwing the match upon the dry grass. Alighted by a fierce wind, the flames covered an area of nine miles long and two miles wide before they were extinguished by the score of men and boys who were compelled to get out and fight the fire. Hay and other property worth many thousands of dollars was destroyed as the result of a match being thrown upon the ground.

"PAINTED THE TOWN GREEN."

A quartet of silly young things of the gentler sex came over from Jacksonville on the 8:23 Sunday morning and stayed in Virginia all day. Their first impulse upon alighting from the train was to roast the town, the electric lights, the sidewalks and things in general in a way that made the hearts of the people who heard them ache. They took up their abode in the park and there they remained until a few easy marks belonging to Virginia's sterner sex dropped around and took them out to see the sights of the city. They changed partners a number of times and were no doubt highly entertained, being evidently too ignorant to appreciate the fact that they were the object of criticism from Virginia's well-bred citizens and the laughing stock after the train pulled out of all the young men who made their acquaintance that day. Virginia may possess a few girls of this design, but she keeps them at home, where they belong, and looks after them "as a hen looks after her brood."—Virginia Gazette.

The SPORTING WORLD

Director of Sports at St. Louis.
James E. Sullivan of New York, who was recently appointed director of physical culture at the world's fair and Louisiana Purchase exposition, St. Louis, is the leading American authority on athletics. Probably no man in the United States is better qualified to fill this office than Mr. Sullivan. He was assistant director of sports at the Paris exposition in 1900, where he personally looked after the interests of the Americans. At the Pan-American ex-

JAMES E. SULLIVAN, DIRECTOR OF ST. LOUIS FAIR SPORTS.

In position in Buffalo the following year he was again in charge, acting in the capacity of director of athletics.

Mr. Sullivan has been actively interested in athletics for the past twenty-five years. As a competing athlete he won considerable fame in the seventies and early eighties, since which time he has held many positions requiring experience in and knowledge of athletics, and the games he has directed at one time or another and in other capacities would figure in the record.

He is at present secretary-treasurer of the amateur athletic union, president of the Metropolitan association, director of athletics at the Champlain N. Y., summer school, and director of a dozen athletic and teaching organizations.

He is also on the Board of Directors of the Olympic sailing team, and president of the Out-door Recreation League of New York. In addition, the latter body he was instrumental in the establishment of public playgrounds in New York.

SEARCH FOR URANIUM

Chicago Professor Tells Why Scientists Seek the Metal.

QUANTITIES REPORTED IN AMERICA

North Carolina and Colorado Ores said to be Rich in Uranium or Pitchblende, From Which the Precious Substance Is Obtained. Why
It Costs So Much to Extract It.

Radium, the new metal which sends off waves of minute particles that will cure cancer and give flashes of light to the blind and which is expected to supersede and surpass X rays, is being sought on the American market by scientists at the University of Chicago. Although this magical metal is many times more costly than gold or diamonds and the French company which manufactures it is charging $170,000 an ounce for it, the metal from which radium is extracted exists in the United States, and a company has recently been organized at Buffalo to produce it for the various universities in the country, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist at note at the University of Chicago, says that he recently received a compensation from this company and that he has replied that the University of Chicago research workers are desirous of securing consignment of the precious substance.

"We have been too poor to buy any radium, although very anxious to do so, because the discussion of many questions brought up by its discovery is probably the most important among the physicists, chemists and pathologists of Europe today," said Dr. Millikan. "The Socete Centrale de Paris purposes to ask $6,000 a gram for radium, which is a little more than $170,000 an ounce. Thus, to secure a quantity for experimental purposes here, unless there can be some reduction in the cost, we would have to spend as much as it might take to endow a department."

The scarcity of the world's supply of radium and the elaborate processes required for its extraction account for this enormous price. It is estimated that the complete supply of the world is not more than two tons, Professor Herbert N. McCoy of the department of chemistry says.

The new substance, discovered only three or four years ago, is found principally in uranium. Pitchblende is the name which the miners give to the mineral oxide form in which uranium is usually found. The chunks of pitchblende look like coal and are seen in lumps smaller than a miner's hand within veins of other minerals, gold, silver or mica, or in small lumps of granite.

"Pitchblende is but moderately abundant," said Professor McCoy. "The cost of getting radium does not come from the scarcity of the uranium in this form, but because in the uranium the radium is found in very minute quantities. To get a little bit of radium out of the immense amount of pitchblende is like getting a tenth of a grain of gold out of three tons of sand. It is estimated that pitchblende does not contain more than one ten thousandth per cent of radium. And, as has been proved by M. and Mme. Curie of Paris, who have led in this work, it is the most expensive process. Very naturally we are hoping that possibly some American will exercise Yankee ingenuity and extract the new metal more cheaply."

That America possesses a considerable amount of pitchblende and that an increase in the world's supply of uranium will be made, now that its great value is known, is believed by Dr. Oliver C. Farrington, curator of the department of geology at the Field Columbian museum and professional lecturer for the university. In speaking of America's stores of radium producing minerals he said:

"Outside of the United States the only places where pitchblende is found are Saxony, where the French chemists are getting their supply; Bohemia, Norway, where it is found in granite, and Egypt.

In the United States there are three places where it is found in quantities. One of these is in North Carolina, in Mitchell county, where lumps of the pitchblende are round in mass. These lumps are not as big as your fist. They are sold for $1 a pound. Uranium is used for an alloy. Uranium salts are used in photography and have been for many years.

"The other two places are in Colorado. One is in Gilpin county, where the pitchblende is found in silver and gold ore. This was for a time mined extensively and sold at $500 a ton. But that did not pay, and it was given up. The second place is in the southwestern part of Colorado. There uranium is found in massive form. There is a valley about 10 miles wide which is spread out in extensive flat areas. It is called carnotite and was mined for a time, but finally given up as unprofitable. It had already been discovered that radium, with its remarkable powers, is extracted from uranium. But since then this has become more widely known, and it may never be unprofitable.

"The powers of radium can be turned to practical uses, and the maximum therefore will be increase in value sufficient to warrant the cost of mining and extracting uranium. I think that uranium will be found in many places which are now unprofitable.

HOW TO PRESERVE HAY IN STOCK.

Haystacks standing in fields generally, but if a drift is used care should be taken that the soil is not planted too deep. One and a half inches is deep enough. Twenty pounds to the acre is the standard quantity. The best way to get your hay in stock is to commence on the first crop as soon as it is well budded for bloom. Cut one-half of, say, a twenty acre field and put it into the stack. Then, if the weather is good, while you are cutting and stacking the last part of the field, the first part will have a great start for the next crop and will keep your haying of the three or four cuttings for the season well divided, and you will, as a rule, have a majority of your alfalfa hay bright and free from dust. And one stack of bright, clean alfalfa is worth more than a wagon load of musty, dusty stuff for your dairy cows for winter butter.

Stack in ricks not over twelve feet wide; keep sides of the stack straight and the same width as high as you can pitch off the wagon. In toppling out shake the hay out and spread it carefully. Pound down the sides with the fork and tie the top before you leave the stack. It will turn the ruts as well as any hay with the same care in toppling. You will be surprised how little the rain will penetrate. It is generally claimed it won't turn rain, and it won't if stuck on with lumps and chunks. The man with big fields and machinery will learn by his necessities how to work his crop.—L. Morse in Nebraska Farmer.

Art and Agriculture.

The son of an immensely wealthy American, having graduated from college, went to Paris to study art. He worked hard in the Paris studios for three years. One day he made up his mind that he would never be a great artist and that he would rather be a successful farmer than a fairly successful painter. Now, although still a young man, he has a model farm covering 10,000 acres in Illinois. He knows every foot of it, what it should produce, and sees that it produces everything it should. He has built a magnificent house, in which not an ornament jars the finest taste. He goes to Europe every winter and studies European methods of scientific farming and cooking. He is developing the land as his fathers did before him. He employs scores of men; he helps the small farmers about him; he is likely to be a great factor in the development of the state during the next few years. And this is the story of a young American who works for the love of it and who has a great success because, anxious to do things, he knew when he had not "found his work."—World's Work.

Sheep Paid Best.
My sheep have gained, from start to feeding to finish, eight to ten pounds of mutton per bushel of corn, while the gain of my cattle of equal quality and feed runs from seven to eight pounds. And my hogs eat corn, corn from first to last, and only a little grass for change, while my sheep eat grass, grass from first to last, and only a little corn to start lambs and finish them. That is the cheap feed versus high priced feed.

The foregoing facts, obtained from my experience, convince me that the sheep are, in general, most profitable stock on a farm, especially on thin and high land, and in conclusion I will say:

Keep none but the best of whatever sheep you have. They will pay when poor ones lose. Sheep are easy to handle and easy to retain in an inclosure that would not hold other stock and are the best weed destroyers we have on the farm. Taking all things into consideration, the sheep certainly has much to commend it to the farmer.—Jacob Ziegler in American Cultivator.

To keep the boy at home.

If a farmer's boy is born right and treated right he will not want to leave the farm. In fact, you could not drive him away from the farm by any sort of treatment. The boy should be early imbued with the beauty of thoroughly practical and scientific farming, and this should be done both by precept and example. The teaching should be the best available, and the example should be before him at all times.

Then by the judicious distribution of responsibilities and emoluments the boy's anchor of life may be made fast in the soil, and all the allurements of city life will be unable to make it drag.—Farm and Ranch.

ECONOMIC ECOLOGY.

Professor H. A. Surface, economic zoologist of Pennsylvania, is beginning his official career in a way that promises to greatly enlarge the usefulness of his office. He especially requests those who desire knowledge of insects, infected plants, birds and other wild animal life to address him at Harrisburg. His bulletins will be mailed monthly to all who want them, and they are not only interesting, but of great practical value.—Stockman and Farmer.

BEEKEEPING.

Pearlwort should be utilized as much as possible, as it is the best food for bees, and the blossoms and the blossoms of the clover should be the cheapest to be had.

"Milk should never be closely covered before eating and should never have an air space covering afterward when eating.

"The milk should always be eaten with a spoon, and the mouth should be rinsed with water after each mouthful.

HELD INQUIST.

Coroner's Jury Exonerates the Street Railway From Blame for Roy Bryson's Death.

Coroner Reynolds impanelled a jury Thursday night to inquire into the death of Roy Bryson and after being sworn they adjourned until 9 o'clock Friday morning. They convened at that time and listened to the testimony of several witnesses, adjourning again at noon to meet at 2 o'clock, when all the witnesses who saw the accident which resulted in the death of the lad were heard.

The following testified before the coroner's jury: William H. Self, Harry Ballard, Daniel Kelley, Joy Green, Miss Hook, Mrs. Ed Knollenberg and Mrs. Clayton Coutas. The testimony of each witness tended very plainly to show that the motorman and conductor of the car had taken every precaution in this case. The clanging of the gong by the motorman, Harry Ballard, who saw the youth riding ahead of him at a distance of fifty yards, and later the checking of the speed of his car showed him to be aware of the danger ahead. When the boy turned out of the tracks he had thought all danger past.

Harry Ballard, the motorman, testified as follows:

"I was motorman on car No. 25, which left the west end at 6 o'clock, and while running east on West State street near the residence of J. H. Osborne I saw a boy on a bicycle coming off the switch at Caldwell street. As he came toward my car he was riding in between the tracks and just as he passed the front of the residence of Frank Elliott he turned out from the tracks. Then I released my brake and just before he got to the car he turned back on the track. I had the car under control and was coasting toward the switch when he made the angle across the track and was struck by the car. When he first cleared the track he was possibly thirty feet from the car. I sounded the gong when I first saw the boy until he turned off the track."

The testimony of Mrs. Ed Knollenberg and Mrs. Clayton Coutas, who were sitting on the front seat of the car, differed somewhat from others who saw the accident. They testified that the rapid clanging of the gong attracted their attention and looking down the track they saw the boy riding on his wheel directly toward the car with his head down. They thought he was deaf and dumb and as he came closer he did not look up, while all the time the gong was sounding. Just as he reached the car he let loose the bicycle and threw his hands up in the air, seeming to attempt at the same time to throw himself to one side.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that "the deceased came to his death from injuries received in a collision with car No. 25 of the Jacksonville Street Railway company while riding a bicycle on the right of way of the said corporation, the said car being in charge of Conductor Daniel Kelley and Motorman Harry Ballard. The said collision took place about sixty feet west of the Caldwell street switch about 6 p. m. Aug. 6, 1903. We further exonerate the said Jacksonville Street Railway company and said Conductor Kelley and Motorman Ballard from any negligence or carelessness on their part."

LIBEL SUIT FILED.

Charles J. Skaggs, city clerk of Pekin, has commenced a libel suit against the Pekin Post-Tribune, also John H. Shad, manager of the same, alleging criminal libel. Deputy Sheriff Norris served the warrant on Mr. Shad, and after having a preliminary hearing the defendants were placed under $500 bonds, which were furnished.

The article which brought forth the suit for alleged libel appeared in Tuesday's issue of the Post-Tribune. It seems that a city ordinance was published in that paper, over which there was a dispute about the bill, and in writing of the matter the paper charged Mr. Skaggs with telling a falsehood, and alleged political reasons. In the suit now brought by Clerk Skaggs this article is pronounced criminally libelous.

WILL LEAVE SEPT. 1.

General Superintendent J. H. Barrett, of the Chicago & Alton, stated that as yet no man has been selected to succeed A. L. Humphrey, who sent in his resignation several weeks ago to take effect on Aug. 1, but who has been unable to get away. It is understood that the Alton management has tried hard to retain Mr. Humphrey, but this seems to be impossible. Mr. Humphrey recently received a letter from the Westinghouse people which stated that they desired his presence in Pittsburgh not later than Aug. 15. It seems that Mr. Humphrey is firm in his determination to leave the Alton's service and he has so notified the officials.

MEMORIALS

Gov. Yates Accepts Throne of Four Trustees of Institutions.

Governor Yates has accepted a number of resignations of trustees of various state institutions as follows:

E. H. Thompson, of Decatur, chairman of the Macoupin county Republican central committee, as trustee for the state hospital for incurable insane at Bartonville; Dr. C. R. Rowley, of Chicago, as member of the state board of dental examiners; I. Blumenthal, of Chicago, as trustee for Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, and T. M. King, of Paxton, as trustee of the state institution for the deaf and dumb at Jacksonville. Mr. Blumenthal stated that the duties of his office had so worked upon his nervous system as to cause ill health, which would require his leaving the state for a time. Mr. King stated that his business would not allow him longer to remain a member of the board of the deaf and dumb.

BRAKERMAN BADLY HURT.

John Murphy, a brakeman, whose home is in Springfield, was injured in Atlanta Thursday morning. Mr. Murphy is a brakeman on the Alton local freight and had signaled to another brakeman to have several cars placed in the clear. He was standing on a stationary car and when the others passed him he attempted to jump on one from his position. He misjudged the distance and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. Had not the ground where he fell been very soft from the recent rains, he would have been killed. As it was he was injured severely internally.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED.

East St. Louis, Aug. 7.—The Chicago express on the Wabash, arriving in St. Louis at 7 o'clock, ran down and instantly killed an unidentified workman from the Commonwealth Steel company's shop at Granite City, between Madison and Granite City last evening.

The man was walking by the side of the track, and evidently did not hear the engineer signal him off the right of way. He was struck by the pilot and thrown into a field. His head was crushed and he received other injuries which resulted in his death before the train crew could move his body. They placed the corpse in the baggage car, carrying it to West Madison. The body is now in the care of Deputy Coroner W. H. Ballhorn, of Venice, who will hold an inquest over the remains this morning.

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH.

Peoria, Aug. 7.—Roland Snyder, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder, farmers living four miles west of Chillicothe, died this morning as the result of burns received from scalding water. The mother of the little fellow was washing and the little one pulled the plug from the washing machine and allowed the boiling water to run over his body. The little one lingered in great agony until this morning, when he expired. Dr. Thomas, of Chillicothe, was called and he notified Coroner Harper, who will go there this afternoon and hold an inquest.

McARTY.

William McCarty, residing near Franklin, passed from earth early Thursday morning. He had been feeble for a number of years and death was due to a gradual breaking down of the system.

Decedent was born in Ireland 75 years ago and came to America in 1849. He was employed for a time as engineer on the York & Erie railroad and later came to Illinois and entered the service of the C. & A. railroad in the same capacity, running between Chicago and St. Louis. Shortly after the civil war he retired from railroad service and went to farming near Franklin, where he has since resided. He was one of the oldest and most respected residents of the county, a man of industry and ruggedness. He began his career as a farmer with 100 acres of land and at the time of his death he had strict attention to his business; he was the owner of 300 acres. He was highly respected and had many warm friends, who will mourn of his death with the sorrow of old acquaintances.

The deceased is survived by his wife and four children, James, William, Margaret and Willis, all residents of this country.
